Livestock

Health South East offers farmers in the region the opportunity to benefit from high quality training and knowledge transfer activities, funded by DEFRA through RDPE.

These activities will include meetings, discussion groups, on-line training and one-to-one veterinary advice. Training is being delivered by a number of partners, including EBLEX, BPEX, DairyCo, NADIS, NFU, ADAS, Kingshay and local veterinary practices.

Due to popular demand and with thanks to your training requests the following events are currently being planned over the next few months:

- Effective disease management of the poultry flock
- Successful poultry breeding
- DIY bovine artificial insemination and fertility management full licence and refreshers

If you or a group of you have an idea for a training event that relates to farm animal health and welfare, please continue to let us know.
